I wish to take this opportunity to thank you for the very fine session you arranged last month for our Washington Seminar group. It helped the students achieve a more sophisticated understanding of the workings of our national government and the formulation and execution of public policy.

They join with me in expressing our appreciation.

Sincerely,

Karl M. Schmidt

Admiral Stansfield Turner
Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C. 20505

STATINTL

Dear Admiral Turner:

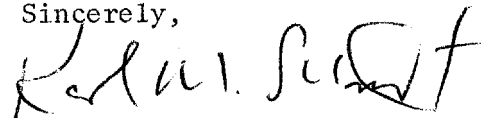

In recent years a number of key officials in your agency including Associate Deputy Director [redacted] have generously taken time to meet with our student groups there in Washington. In view of your own role in reorganizing and reinvigorating the agency we invite you to meet with us this year between May 12th and 31st for perhaps an hour of discussion about the current role of the CIA in national defense and foreign policy, as well as the Congressional proposals for a "CIA Charter."

There will be some 25 undergraduate and graduate students who will be examining "Presidential Leadership: The Successes -- and the Failures -- of Jimmy Carter" and "Congressional Response: Service to the People -- or to the Pressure Groups?"

If you will be able to meet with us, may I suggest Friday, May 23rd, at 2:00 PM as a possible time? This is only a suggestion, however, and we shall be happy to schedule another time more convenient for you.

I look forward with pleasure to meeting you in May. Many thanks for your assistance.

Sincerely,

Karl M. Schmidt
Professor of Political Science and Public Administration

WASHINGTON SEMINAR

May 12-31, 1980

The 1980 presidential campaign — will it focus on the man or on the issues? Should an outsider or an insider manage the nation's government? Become an insider yourself — at least for three exciting weeks as you inquire into these and other questions, as you analyze the key issues, as you judge for yourself the prospects for the 1980's. Will the next Congress respond to the people or to the pressure groups? Will the parties face up to the issues or merely seek electoral victory? Seek your own answers in the nation's capital in the Maxwell School's Washington Seminar. Interview the participants in the governing process — the "president's men," legislative leaders, career administrators, party leaders, lobbyists for powerful pressures, and journalists from the national media.

1980 THEMES

Presidential Leadership

The Successes
— and the Failures —
of Jimmy Carter

Congressional Response

Service to the People
— or to the Pressure Groups?

Examine the two main themes of the 1980 Seminar — Presidential Leadership and Congressional Response — in the context of the major campaign issues.

ISSUES IN THE 1980 CAMPAIGN

- Energy Policy • Actual crisis or contrived shortage? OPEC and corporate cartels or free market competition? Will the President or the Congress produce a comprehensive plan for the '80's?
- Economic Policy • Continued inflation or increased unemployment — or both? Renewed recession or stable growth? Will the President or the Congress produce a fiscal program to avert disaster?
- Foreign Policy • Progress toward peace or rule by terror? China as a new ally? Iran as a new enemy? Continued turmoil in the Mid-East? SALT II and arms control or unrestrained capability for destruction? Will the President and the Congress provide a rational response?
- Regulatory Policy • Can we afford to muzzle the government watchdog by deregulating while predators still roam the marketplace? What price Three Mile Island and Love Canal? Will the President and the Congress protect the public interest or succumb to corporate blandishments?

BASIC COURSE CREDIT Undergraduate Students

Undergraduate students will receive three hours of credit for successful completion of Political Science 472, Washington Seminar. Grading will be on the basis of: (1) the interviews conducted; (2) a "log" which both describes and analyzes selected interviews; and (3) a comprehensive final examination. Course credit is transferable to other colleges and universities, subject to their regulations.

Graduate Students

Graduate students will have the opportunity to write a paper in an area of their own interest, based upon their first hand interviews and subsequent research. They will receive three hours of graduate credit for successful completion of Political Science 701 or Public Administration 701, Washington Seminar: Public Policy and Administration. Performance will be judged by: (1) the research paper (to be completed within a month after leaving Washington); (2) the interviews; (3) the analytical "log"; and (4) the final examination. The course offers regular credit in the Maxwell School's master's and doctoral programs in political science and public administration. Course credit is transferable to other graduate institutions, subject to their regulations.

ADDITIONAL COURSE CREDIT

Undergraduate and graduate students who wish to undertake an independent research project for extra credit also may register for Political Science 490 or Public Administration 890, Independent Study. Each course may carry one, two or three hours of credit, thus enabling a student to take as many as six

ELIGIBILITY AND ADMISSION

While the Washington Seminar courses, both graduate and undergraduate, are conducted according to the usual high standards of the Maxwell School's Political Science and Public Administration departments, applications are encouraged from students majoring in other disciplines, as well as from those enrolled at other institutions. The only requirements are that students (1) must be in good academic standing, and (2) must submit evidence of their intellectual and physical capacity to undertake an intensive, rigorous, and demanding program.

Since the number of participants is limited by the nature of the program, early application is encouraged.

PHYSICAL ARRANGEMENTS

Housing arrangements are made by the Washington Seminar to assure convenience of location and the opportunity for close association among the participants. Charges for modern accommodations in a convenient location will be modest— about $220 for the 20-day period — with a choice of double or triple occupancy. Single occupancy is available at proportionately higher prices. Payment of rent and a security deposit is due in advance. A conference room charge, not expected to exceed $25, is payable upon arrival in Washington.

While meal charges obviously will vary according to individual tastes, excellent food is available at government and private cafeterias for an average daily cost of $6.00. Subway and cab fare for travel to and from interviews, as well as other incidental costs, may be expected to average about $3.00 per day.

Travel arrangements to and from Washington are the responsibility of the individual student. Sometimes it may be possible to arrange car pools for sharing driving expenses.

APPLICATION

To apply for the Washington Seminar, fill out and submit the enclosed application form; please note that the names of the two persons you request to send letters of recommendation to the Seminar Office should be entered on the last two lines of the form. A deposit of $50 must accompany the application; this amount is credited toward tuition (or may be refunded upon withdrawal prior to April 10, 1980). The balance of tuition is payable no later than May 5, 1980. Checks for both the deposit and the balance of tuition should be made payable to Syracuse University and submitted to the Program Director (address below). All students must complete a summer sessions registration form before going to Washington, D.C.

It is expected that tuition will not exceed $140 per credit hour for undergraduates ($420 for three hours of credit, $840 for six hours), or $165 for graduate students ($495 for three hours of credit, $990 for six hours).
